I. Main economic indicators

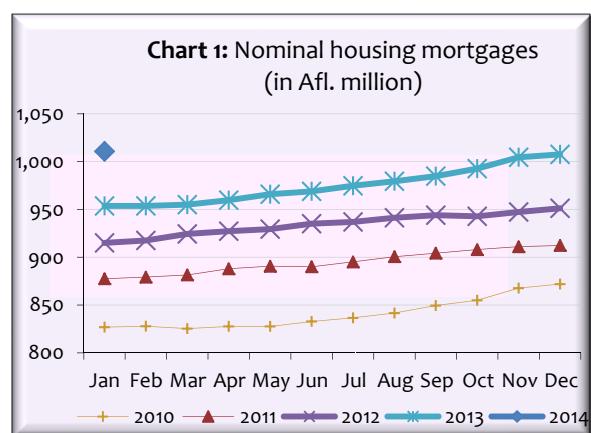

Monetary developments

During the month of January 2014, money supply rose by Afl. 46.0 million to Afl. 3,339.8 million, resulting from expansions in both net foreign assets (excluding revaluation differences of gold and foreign exchange holdings) and net domestic assets of, respectively, Afl. 29.1 million and Afl. 16.9 million. The net inflow of foreign funds resulted mainly from a surplus on the current account, as gross tourism receipts surpassed payments for imports of goods.

The increase in the domestic component of the money supply was brought about by an Afl. 31.8 million rise in the net claims of the banking sector on the public sector, which was partly offset by reductions in the non-credit related balance sheet items and claims on the private sector of, respectively, Afl. 10.5 million and Afl. 4.3 million.

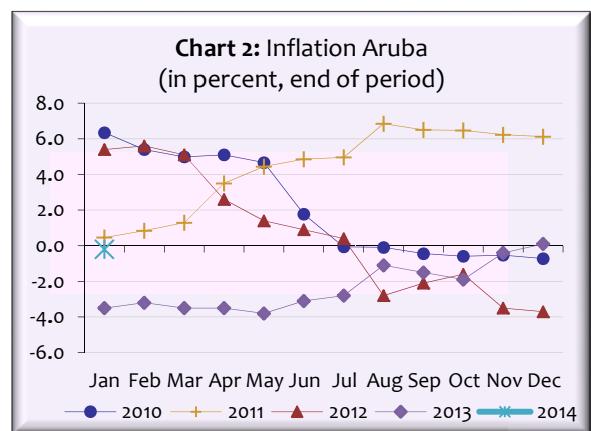

The expansion in the net claims of the banking sector on the public sector stemmed mostly from an Afl. 29.0 million decline in government deposits.

The fall in the claims on the private sector mainly reflected an Afl. 8.3 million (-1.5 percent) decrease in consumer credit, which was mitigated by upturns in housing mortgages and commercial loans of, respectively, Afl. 3.3 million (+0.3 percent) and Afl. 1.7 million (+0.1 percent).

Inflation

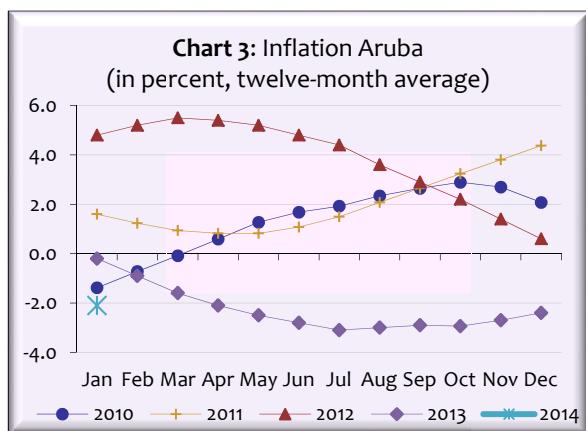

The consumer price index (CPI) for January 2014 registered a 0.2 percent decrease, compared to the same month of 2013 (Chart 2). The main contributors to this drop were recreation and culture, household operation, and clothing and footwear. Excluding the effect of food and energy (which partly affects the housing and transport components), the core CPI decreased by -0.2 percent, compared to January 2013 (Table A).

The 12-month average inflation rate was -2.1 percent in January 2014 (Chart 3). Excluding the energy and food components, the core CPI went up by 0.2 percent (Table A).

Tourism

In January 2014, the number of stay-over visitors totaled 82,887, which is 9.4 percent (+7,136 visitors) higher than in January 2013. This growth was mainly caused by increased visitors from Latin America and North America of, respectively, 23.9 percent (+3,936 visitors) and 4.9 percent (+2,475 visitors). The expansion in the Latin American market was mostly attributed to a rise in arrivals from Venezuela of 27.7 percent (+2,612 visitors). Growth in the North American market resulted mainly from a 5.4 percent (+2,463 visitors) upturn in the number of visitors from the United States.

The European market noted an overall growth of 573 visitors (+8.5 percent) in January 2014, compared to January 2013. The largest increases were registered in arrivals from Italy (+199 visitors) and England (+109 visitors).

The intended number of nights stayed in Aruba increased by 7.9 percent to 683,545 nights, while the average intended nights stayed dropped from 8.4 nights in January 2013 to 8.2 in January 2014.

The number of cruise visitors dropped by 35,665 or 30.1 percent to 82,877 in the month of January 2014, compared to the same month of the previous year. This fall resulted mainly from a drop of 14 ship calls to 50 in January 2014, compared to 64 in January 2013.

 Gross claims include loans granted as well as government bonds in the hands of the monetary sectors and claims resulting from the issuance of treasury bills, cash certificates, and coins.

 Revaluation differences of gold and official foreign exchange holdings are excluded in order to approximate the net import of foreign funds by the nonmonetary sectors.

1) The Diversification Index measures the concentration within the tourist market, and thus demonstrates the degree of diversification by tourist origin countries. The higher the index, the higher the level of concentration, meaning less diversification. For further reference on the methodology (which is an application of a Herfindahl-Hirschman index) see the Quarterly Bulletin (2011-1) of the CBA.
